Water Walking

Instructor: Marty Adams

Water fitness is one of the fastest growing low-impact activities in the country. Here's why millions are taking the plunge. Water walking is an effective workout, is easy to learn and requires no swimming skills. Vertical water fitness combines the toning of weight training, the cardio benefits of aerobics and the enhanced flexibility gained through yoga - in one, 1 hour fat-burning workout. Water is a natural and instantly adjustable weight-training machine, providing resistance in all directions to tone and strengthen the muscles. Studies show water workouts effectively burn fat, and strengthen the abdominals without doing a single sit-up. Low-impact aquatic workouts are joint-friendly and help prevent and heal injuries.

Yoga

Instructor: Mary Marshall

The age-old set of exercises known in the West as "yoga" offers a significant variety of proven health benefits. It increases the efficiency of the heart and slows the respiratory rate, improves fitness, lowers blood pressure, promotes relaxation, reduces stress, and allays anxiety. It also serves to improve coordination, posture, flexibility, range of motion, concentration, sleep, and digestion. It can be used as supplementary therapy for conditions as diverse as cancer, diabetes, arthritis, asthma, migraine, and AIDS, and helps to combat addictions such as smoking. It is not, in itself, a cure for any medical ailment, but as part of the well-known Dean Ornish program of diet and exercise, it has contributed to the reversal of heart disease.
